Spring Food Drive

Throughout the month of May, Sigler Wholesale Distributors is partnering with Second Harvest Food Bank of Santa Clara and San Mateo Counties and the Food Bank of Contra Costa and Solano. Together, we will try to make a small dent in the hunger problem that still persists in our communities.

It can be easy to overlook, but one in ten people in our communities receive food from a local food bank, and more than one in four of those recipients are children. These two food banks in the Bay Area distributed more than 30 million pounds of food last year.

In Concord, San Jose and South San Francisco, barrels have been placed in the store for you to make food donations. To give you some extra motivation, Sigler Wholesale Distributors will take $5 off your order when you make a donation.

There is no limit on the amount of food you want to donate, but each customer will only receive one $5 discount per day. However, if you want to donate a box of cereal each day in May, you'll be a big help to the community and accumulate a nice discount on your orders!

So, grab a jar of peanut butter, save some money on your next order and help those around you who are in need.

Any non-perishable food item is a welcome donation. If you need some ideas, here are the items that these two food banks have identified as a current priority...

Protein

- Peanut Butter
- Hearty Soups
- Dried or Canned Beans
- Canned Chicken or Tuna

Fruits & Veggies

- Canned Fruit
- 100% Fruit Juice
- Canned Vegetables
- Canned Tomato Products

Grains

- Enriched Rice or Pasta
- Iron Rich Cereal
- Whole Grain Cereal

Thank you for helping us reduce hunger in our local communities.

Technical Tips

Q: I added refrigerant and it didn't help – now what?

When witnessing relatively low liquid and suction line pressures a technician is typically inclined to add refrigerant and “get the head up.” This is not always the proper solution.

First, determine the type of indoor metering device being used. Second, place temperature probes on the suction and liquid lines to determine superheat/subcool.

Since 2006, a majority of split systems installed use TXV metering devices. If the bulb begins to lose its charge, the valve may not open properly. On a properly charged system, symptoms associated with this situation are are typically low liquid and suction line pressure and high superheat/subcool. Adding refrigerant results in an overcharge, little change in suction pressure, and eventually excessive high side pressure as the condenser is filled beyond its holding capacity

Take time to put temperature probes on the lines to get a more accurate assessment of the conditions prior to adding refrigerant. There's no sense in adding refrigerant to a system that you may eventually be recovering!

Also, to reduce recovery time, ask about the new CPS Pro-Set MT69 submersible subcooler.
